THE BAD BOY

[Peck's Sun.]

"What is that I hear about your pa fighting a duel with the minister in your back-yard, and wounding him in the leg. and then trying to drown him in the cistern?" said the grocery man to the bad boy the other morning. "One of your new neighbors was here this morning, and told me there was murder in the air at your house last night, and they were going to have the police pull your place as a disorderly house. I think you were at the bettom of the whole busi-

"Oh, it's all a darn lie, and those neighbors will find they had better keep still about us, or we will lie about them a little. You see, since pa got that blacking on his face he don't go out any, and to make it pleasant for him ma in vited a few friends to spend the evening. Ma invited the minister among the rest, and after supper the men went up into pa's library, to talk. Oh, you think I am bad, don't you !-but of the nine men at our house last night. I am an angel compared with what they were when they were boys. I got in the bath-room, to untangle my fish-line, and it is next to pa's room, and I could hear everything they said, but I went away 'cause I thought the conversation would hurt my morals. They would all steal when they were boys, but darned if I ever stole. Pa has stole over a hundred wagon-loads of

Then he was stream out, and to ward off suspicion he taken to jail. The man bore an excellent went to the man the next day and paid character, and there was nothing whathim a dollar to let him fish in the stream, ever to criminate him except his own and then kicked because there were no evidence; but rough characters immeditrout, and the owner found the trout ately began to talk about lynching, and were stolen and laid it to some Ducth finally 12 men went, in broad daylight, boys. I wondered when those men were to "hang the nigger." Wilson was telling their experience, if they ever dragged out of the jail by a rope around thought of it now when they were his neck, and probably killed at the outpreaching, and praying, and taking up collections. I should think they would set. Then his body was hung to a tree, not say a boy was going straight to hell and the lynchers amused themselves riddling it with bullets. A shot happene right off cause he was a little wild now, to cut the rope off, and the body was when he has such an example. Well, hung in another place; but this was near lately somebody has been burgling our a saloon, and the keeper hired the crowd, chicken-coop, and pa loaded an old musfor four gallons of whisky, to take it elseket with rock salt, and said he would where. With whisky and excitement fill the fellow full of salt if he caught the men were devils, and their proceedhim, and while they were talking upings would disgraced Digger Indians. You know how a wire hand, with thumb and fingers distinct, plainly marked on the bark. But perhitting a man under the throat, will set a man back, head over appetite. cocked, or it struck the hammer on a stone, for it went off, and it was pointed toward the house, and three of the visitors got salted. The minister was hit the worst, one piece of salt taking him in the hind leg, and the other in the back, and he yelled as though it was dynamite.

I suppose when you shoot a man with pa and heard a splash like when you throw a cat in the river, and then I thought of the cistern, and I went down and we took pa by the collar and pulled him out. Oh, he was awful damp! No, sir, it was no duel at all, but an accident, and I didn't have anything to do with it.

The gun wasn't loaded to kill, and the salt only went through the skin, but those men did yell. May be it was my chum that stirred up the chickens, but I lead a different life yet, and he might think it would make our folks sick if nothing occurred to make them pay attention. I think where a family has been having a good deal of exercise the way ours has, it hurts them to break off too suddenly. But the visitors went home, real quick, after we got pa out of the cistern, and the minister told ma be though he was on the verge of a vawning crater, ready to be engulfed any minute, and he guessed he wouldn't come any more. Pa changed his clothes, and told ma to have them wire clothes-lines changed for rope ones. I think it is hard to suit pa, don't you? Gosh! What kind of maple sugar is that? Jerusalem,
